HKBU Network Security Alert - Fake Email

Hong Kong Baptist University (HKBU) has received a report that an external organisation has recently received an email from an unknown source with unidentified account domain name, impersonating HKBU staff and inviting the recipient to participate in fabricated business activities allegedly related to The Chinese Medicine Hospital of Hong Kong.

HKBU hereby solemnly declares that the email in question was not issued by the University, and condemns any acts of impersonation of HKBU and its staff. Immediate actions have been taken by the University to mitigate potential scam risks, including reporting the scammer's email address/domain to the "Cyber Defender" platform developed by the Hong Kong Police Force.

The University's official email domain name is "hkbu.edu.hk". Members of the public should remain vigilant if they receive suspicious emails sent from unknown email accounts on similar subject matters. Individuals or organisations that have received the aforementioned fake email and subsequently provided their personal information or conducted any financial transactions should contact the Police immediately.
